RESEARCH FIELD AND INTERESTS

Chronic viral hepatitis (CVH) is highly prevalent in Korea. For instance, the prevalence of hepatitis B surface antigen is approximately 5-10% in Korea, where is one of the most prevalent areas of chronic hepatitis B virus (HBV) infection in the world, and the prevalence of antibody to hepatitis C virus (anti-HCV) is about 1-2%. Taken together, liver diseases such as CVH, liver cirrhosis (LC), and hepatocellular carcinoma (HCC) have been regarded as the leading cause of death in Korea. Of them, I am interested in the pathogenesis and clinical features of the diseases caused by chronic HBV and HCV infection. Therefore, my studies are mainly focused on the fields of CVH or its complications including LC and HCC.
